MORNING WORKSHOP

Focus on the French market (live) – 11am, duration 1 hour

For a European music ensemble, France can offer interesting opportunities. How is the live music environment structured for promoters in France? How to promote your ensemble and which artistic projects are possibly interesting for this market? Which best practice? What is today's situation for French promoters and what are their constraints? Which work culture is applicable in France and what are the key events to attend?

Speakers: Emmanuel Gaillard, Odysud / Jean-Michel Mathé, Festival de Besançon Franche-Comté / Federico Rinaldi, Ensemble Ghislierimusica (Italy).

Animated by Marie Hédin, FEVIS.

Emmanuel Gaillard has been the director of Odysud since 2000, the multidisciplinary hall of the city of Blagnac (Toulouse Métropole) and labeled by the State, the Region and the Département as « scène conventionnée » for new and early music. With 150 000 tickets per season and 19 000 subscribers, Odysud is one of the most visited concert halls in France. E. Gaillard was previously the manager of the Ballet National de Marseille, of the National Chamber Orchestra of Toulouse and of the A Sei Voci vocal ensemble.

Marie Hédin graduated from HEC business school and Sciences Po Paris in public and private management. During her studies she attended Georgetown University (USA) for a year as an undergrad. After an internship at the Orange Foundation, she is hired by FEVIS for its European development. She became managing director of FEVIS in September 2015.

After a science and music degree, Jean-Michel Mathé started as technical director's assistant at the Auditorium of Lyon in 1994, among other positions. He was then the chief stage manager of the Orchestre National of Lyon from 2002 to 2003. He was the director of Chaise Dieu festival in Auvergne during 9 years. In 2012, he became the director of Festival de musique de Besançon Franche-Comté and its International Conducting Competition. He has been a member of France Festivals since 2007.

Born in 1985, Federico Rinaldi graduated cum laude in Communication Sciences at the Pavia University writing a thesis as visiting student at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem about the Israeli Political System in the frame of the 2009 elections. Moreover he studied piano and orchestra conducting and speaks fluently german, english, french and spanish. Since 2009 he works as project manager for the Collegio Ghislieri of Pavia being in charge of big private and public sponsors and managing the tours and the discographical projects of Ghislieri Choir & Consort.

WORKSHOPS

Publishing – stakes and issues - (1h) (French)

This conversation will be focusing on different issues that orchestras and publishers are facing today. What are the consequences of material rental investments and what is the orchestra's intake on its use? How to face difficulties of rights protections and the often illegal use of the material? How to improve the coordination between publishing policies and the subsidies and support systems for new music?

Animated by Aude Leriche, Artist Manager, Warner Music Group /Erato

Speakers: Nelly Querol, Managing Director, Durand-Salabert-Eschig (Universal Music Publishing Classical)

Pierre Lemoine, CEO of Editions Henry Lemoine

Marc Dooley, digital development officer, Editions Peeters, UK

Enrique Therain, Managing Director, les Siècles

Aude Leriche graduated from Paris Dauphine University in cultural institutions management. She became the production manager and managing director of several music groups such as Caratini Jazz ensemble, La Fenice, the Concerts Parisiens agency, and has worked with Jean-François Zygel. Beside these activities, she has been teaching culture management in business schools and consulting organisations such as the Orange Foundation, FEVIS/Profedim, Grands Formats Jazz,.. Since 2014, she has been a Senior A&R manager auprès du label Erato / Warner Classics.

Enrique Thérain comes from Haute Normandie in France where he created the festival Les Musicales de Normandie in 2005. After graduating from Centrale Paris, he has been the managing director of the Les Siècles orchestra conducted by François-Xavier Roth since 2006. Beside these activities, he has worked with Bruno Messina as the administrator of AIDA 38, Berlioz Festival de la Côté St André between 2014 and 2015. Managing Director of the Hector Berlioz youth orchestra since 2009, he has also been a member of the artistic comity of the Cité de la Musique et de la Danse in Soissons. He is a board member of the FEVIS national association.

Henry Lemoine Publishers is specialized in music pieces publishing. This company has remained a family business since its creation in 1772 and the current CEO is a direct descendant of its funder. Jobert Publishers are a branch of Henry Lemoine Publishers, as well as Hexamusic that is itself an umbrella for Paul Beuscher, Van de Velde, Combre, Delrieu and Europamusic.

After studying law, Nelly Quérol is the managing director of Durand-Salabert-Eschig / universal Music Publishing Classical. Beside her publishing activity, she is a board member of property rights distribution society SACEM and Vice-President (2015/16). She is also Chairman of CSDEM and General Secretary of CEMF.

Focus on the British live music market (1h) – 3.15 pm (English)

The format of the session will be conversational, dealing with the British context in general: subsidy, management, audiences etc. What do we mean by the “classical music business” in the UK? What are the key moments in the UK calendar? Audiences and concert venues: what types of repertoire and concert formats are wanted from people and from promoters? Do promoters work together in co-productions? The work culture of a British chamber orchestra: what is their way of working that French or European ensembles might learn from? Specificities of contemporary works: what do promoters/audiences want? What do other areas of the business look like eg. publishing, recording industry?

Françoise Clerc has worked as producer, artist and tour manager in France and abroad. She joined the Bureau Export de la musique in London in 2010 where she leads the classical and contemporary music programmes to strengthen musical dialogues between cultures, including the festival It's All About Piano! and Diaphonique, a Franco-British programme, expanding contemporary music exchanges.

Marc Dooley is Head of Digital Content Development for the Edition Peters Group, responsible for developing new digital music products for this global music publisher. Prior to this newly-created role he was for several years Head of New Music for Edition Peters, overseeing the development of one of the most successful contemporary music catalogues in the world. His commitment to grass-roots involvement in music is reflected in his membership of the board of Contemporary Music for All, a charity that seeks to stimulate engagement and enthusiasm for contemporary music through participation (and for whom he has just edited the anthology Open Score), and in his activities as a conductor with student and amateur orchestras.

Richard Heason has enjoyed a varied career, as a conductor, workshop leader and arts manager. He studied conducting with Peter Eötvös and Colin Metters and, whilst still an undergraduate student at the University of York, founded the education department of the Orchestra of St John's Smith Square with whom he subsequently made his London professional conducting debut in 1993. He has conducted orchestras, choirs and ensembles across Europe (including the Ensemble Intercontemporain, Savaria Symphony Orchestra, Ensemble Modern and Festive Ljubljana) particularly specialising in contemporary music, as well as establishing and leading the education department of the BBC Symphony Orchestra, setting up the first programme of outreach activity for the BBC Proms, creating the Westminster Schools Music Trust and teaching at Goldsmith's College, the University of Greenwich, the University of Chichester and the Royal College of Music. As a venue manager he has worked as Artistic Director and Chief Executive of Blackheath Halls and as Manager of the Aylesbury Civic Theatre, where he was part of the team that oversaw the design and construction of the £42 million new Aylesbury Waterside Theatre. He has also worked extensively at festivals across the UK and Europe, including Dartington, Szombathely, Cheltenham, Ljubljana and Aldeburgh and he is a Trustee of the British Arts Festivals Association and the Dartington International Summer School Foundation and a special advisor to the South West Music School. He has been Director of St John's Smith Square since March 2012.

Gill Kay began her career as a freelance orchestral player in London later becoming Manager of the Dartington International School of Music during which time she worked with some of the world's most renowned musicians including Sir Michael Tippett, Sir Harrison Birtwistle, Witold Lutoslawski and many others. In 1985 she moved from Dartington to Brighton to work on the Festival classical programme since when she has commissioned over 100 world premieres and produced concerts ranging from over 400 performers (Taverner's Veil of the Temple) to young solo artists some of whom are now world names such as Ian Bostridge and Christopher Maltman. During the 1990s Gill managed the Brodsky String Quartet during their world tour of the Juliet Letters with Elvis Costello and was part of the small Festival team involved with the successful £52million Lottery bid to renovate the Dome Concert Hall. As a freelance singer Gill has been heard on a number of TV adverts, films and trailers such as X Men, Madagascar and Spiderman. Gill also manages Brighton Festival Chorus, one of the UK's top symphony choruses who perform not only in the Festival but also throughout the year in major concert halls in the UK as well as abroad. The chorus has just completed a 4 year cultural exchange project which included 13 partners across the UK and Northern France. The €5.2m project was supported by the European Regional Development Funding under the Interreg IVa scheme.

Mark Pemberton is Director of the Association of British Orchestras, which exists to champion, connect and develop professional orchestras across the UK. After graduating from Oxford University he started his career in arts management as Administrator of the professional touring theatre company Quicksilver Theatre for Children, before moving to leading drama conservatoires Drama Centre London as its General Administrator and Mountview Theatre School as Head of Development & Marketing. Before joining the ABO he was Chief Executive of the National Operatic and Dramatic Association, the UK's representative body for amateur and community theatre, during which time he served as chair of Voluntary Arts England. He is currently chair of the National Music Council, which exists to promote the interests of the music sector as a whole.

Focus on Colombian market (1h30mn) – 4.30pm (French)

Speakers: Anne Louyot, General Delegate of the French-Colombian Year 2017
Santiago Gardeazabal, General Manager of Nova et Vetera, executive producer of cultural events

Animated by Mathilde Bézard, Head of Classical Music at Institut français

The FOCUS on Colombia will present the main professional actors in the Colombian classical music field, and how French artists can collaborate with them, in the framework of the French-Colombian Year 2017, and afterwards. Colombia and France decided to co-organise a French-Colombian Year 2017, in order to strengthen their relationships in a very positive context (peace process, economic growth), and also to change the perception of France in Colombia, and of Colombia in France. The French-Colombian Year will schedule events in many fields (cultural events, universities, research, economy, trade, gastronomy, tourism, sport), in the main cities of the two countries, with a focus on long-term partnerships, and a strong involvement of local communities and firms.

Anne LOUYOT, Commissaire générale de l'Année France-Colombie 2017

Born in 1963, Anne Louyot is a professional diplomat, specially dedicated to cultural diplomacy. She has been at the head of the Cultural Diversity Fund, in the French Ministry of Foreign Affairs, and has been in charge of the French-Brazilian Year 2009. She also worked in French embassies in Russia and Brazil.

Santiago Gardeazabal, Nova et Vetera

Founder of the company Nova et Vetera, Santiago Gardeazabal is a promoter, a producer, and a manager. In only two years of existence, Nova et Vetera has produced over 100 concerts in Colombia, presenting artists such as John Zorn and Mike Patton for the first time in Colombia. He produced Juan Pablo Carreño's cinema concert Garras de Oro in March 2015 with the French ensemble Le Balcon.
